

FocusCore

Focus on your Core business.

Take This Simple Executive Time Assessment To Find Out
Whether You Control Your Time or If Time Controls You

	Statement	Yes	So-So	No
1	I spend less than 5% of my time doing work that I could delegate to others
2	I spend at least 80% of my time on the three most important strategic priorities of my organization
3	I sometimes do work at an A+ level when it could be done at a A, A- level, or below.
4	I feel like I am almost always operating at some level of stress.
5	I feel that if my current pace continues that burnout is almost inevitable.
6	There is stress in my relationship with my spouse or significant other because of how much time I spend at work.
7	I feel stress or guilt because I do not see my children enough due to how much time I spend at work.
8	I am not as healthy as I could be and I can attribute some of this to how much I work and/or to the stress I experience at work.
9	I spend more time in meetings than I need to.
10	I spend more time at work than I would like.
11	I procrastinate.
12	I keep logs of how I spend my time and evaluate them to become more productive.
13	I schedule time during the workday to relax and recharge.
14	I have trusted leaders in place so that, if something happened to me, my company or area of responsibility would run smoothly.

FocusCore

Focus on your Core business.

Scoring: Add 1 point for every “So-So” or “No” in questions 1, 2, 12, 13, and 14. Add 1 point for every “Yes” or “So-So” on the remaining questions.

If you scored even 1 point on the above assessment, there is an excellent chance that we can make a major difference in your productivity, peace of mind, and feelings of overwhelm and stress. All it takes is a five-minute conversation to learn more, and the benefits can be enormous. Contact FocusCore at info@focuscoregroup.com for more information on Executive Leadership Development.