Overview

- Morson is committed to compliance with all statutory obligations and associated disclosure to all relevant tax authorities.
- Tax compliance is closely managed by the Board, with support of the Group's in-house tax function and finance teams. The Group also engages with professional advisors to manage tax compliance appropriately and ensure all taxes are paid in full and on time.
- The Group does not engage in tax planning and has a low tax risk appetite.
- The Group has an HMRC Customer Relationship Manager ("CRM") with whom it has a good and clear working relationship. The Group welcomes this contact and is pleased to work with HMRC in this manner.

Governance of taxation

- Ultimate responsibility for Morson's tax affairs rests with the Board and the Senior Accounting Officer ("SAO") is a Board member.
- Individual Morson Group entities have appointed Directors, however these always include at least one member of the Board, and so there is oversight at all levels of the business into decision making and tax affairs. As such, the Board are appropriately placed to ensure that this tax strategy is considered at all levels of the business and in all major decisions.
- Day to day management of the Group's tax affairs is conducted by the Group Tax Manager, with support from heads of finance of the trading companies ('the Senior Finance Team'). The Group Tax Manager holds relevant tax qualifications and is considered to have the necessary expertise to identify and manage tax risks appropriately.
- The Senior Finance Team are experienced and have knowledge and expertise concerning the business, enabling them to support the Board and the Group Tax Manager in the governance of taxation.

- The Group is exposed to certain tax risks by nature of its industry sector, with recruitment and provision of temporary labour services an area which is frequently the subject of changes in tax legislation. This has been the case for many years and the Group holds much experience and understanding of its market. Clearly other more general legislative change is also notable such as employment and indirect tax legislation.
- In order to manage the sector specific risks appropriately, the Board are assisted by a dedicated Compliance Director, who is responsible for ensuring that these changes are appropriately considered, evaluated, acted upon and communicated to the business. The Compliance Director works closely with and is assisted by the Group Tax Manager. The Compliance Director also works with the business to monitor ongoing compliance.
- Morson has a defined management structure with the Board being readily accessible to all of the above persons.

Risk Management

- The Group Tax Manager and the Senior Finance Team have regular dialogue with the Board, covering all areas of tax. The Board take a proactive stance to tax risk management, focused on risk prevention and regular information flow is considered to be an important primary risk management strategy.
- The Group Tax Manager will be involved in all major business and corporate structuring changes in order to identify and manage tax consequences which may arise. Where the tax at stake is material, or the issues are complex or involve overseas jurisdictions, external advice is obtained.
- The Group engages with professional tax advisors in each jurisdiction in which it operates, including the UK. These advisors are appropriately qualified and have sufficient knowledge to advise the Group of its tax liabilities, and assist in making sure these liabilities are paid on time.
- The Group Tax Manager conducts a regular risk review, with input from the Senior Finance Team. Areas of risk will be discussed with the Board and/or the Senior Finance Team. These discussions form part of the SAO sign-off process.
- The Group Tax Manager also has regular dialog with the Compliance Director and the Senior Finance Team throughout the year.
- There is ongoing internal communications and training provided to the broader business on relevant areas of tax.

Attitude towards tax planning and level of risk

- The Group seeks to ensure that the right amount of tax is paid, consistent with its legal obligations and the intentions of government.
- The Group does not undertake any complicated tax planning schemes or structures, nor does it participate in any schemes required to be disclosed to HMRC.
- When entering into commercial transactions, Morson will claim available tax incentives, reliefs and exemptions in the spirit of and in line with the tax legislation, for instance, R&D expenditure credits. The Group does not undertake tax planning otherwise than as part of genuine commercial transactions.

Dealings with HMRC

- The group has a CRM at HMRC, who is assisted by their colleagues in specialist areas, with whom it has regular discussions concerning its tax affairs.

- The Group has agreed an email protocol with HMRC to enable the Group Tax manager and the Senior Finance Team to liaise with HMRC quickly and simply, avoiding the need for formal correspondence and expediting resolution to any queries.
- Morson also pro-actively engages with HMRC on consultations which are relevant to its business.
