

HRC Law

Helping your business to navigate the world of commerce

Clear and commercial guidance

Like a road map, a well-written contract gives its users confidence and certainty; clearly signposting where to go next; flagging risks and protecting its users.

Whether you're venturing into a new area for the first time, revisiting an existing business relationship or planning the best route to market, HRC Law's Commercial Team can give your business the legal support it needs to get where it wants to be.

Your intellectual property

Including data and confidentiality

Protecting, licensing, controlling; using and/or sharing; IP rights, NDAs.

Your regulators

Compliance, investigations, audits; policies and procedures

Data protection and GDPR; right to work, business immigration; National Minimum Wage; bribery, Corporate Finance Act and Modern Slavery.

Your supply chains

Suppliers, purchasers, partners

Supply, outsourcing or manufacturing agreements; agency, distributorship or franchise agreements; standard terms.

Your IT and technology infrastructure

Software, hardware; cloud, web, and Apps

Licences, support and maintenance; hosting, development, R&D; ERP or CRM solutions.

Your network

Consultants, contractors, partners, collaborators

Marketing and PR; outsourcing; temporary workers/employment agencies; joint ventures.

Your customers/clients

Old-school or online; consumers or B2B

E-commerce models; standard terms and conditions of sale; frameworks and tenders; website terms and policies.

Let's get this show on the road!

Your success is our business. By better understanding your business, together we can put in place documentation to keep you on track. Creating written agreements will also help you to focus on what you want and need from each contractual relationship.

We can help not only with contractual drafting, negotiating or simply explaining, but also with big picture commercial issues and decision making.

Having worked extensively in private practice and in-house (in the City and the North West) Head of Commercial, Graham Hansen, knows what it takes for your business to flourish.

He'd love to talk to you about what legal support we could provide. Please get in touch with him to find out more on: T: 0161 358 0552; or at E: grahamhansen@hrclaw.co.uk
